NIM PRIMER

If it is a new surface, use a NIM primer. If you're painting an existing surface that has been painted before, use an undercoater. For the best result in finishing, use our primers and undercoats. Our undercoat prepares surface for painting which ensures that your chosen color can be achieved in fewer coats. Primed surfaces are easier for paint to adhere to and also prevent seeping or bleeding between paint layers.

QN: Do I need to undercoat before painting? It's essential to use the correct primers and undercoats to allow paint to do its job properly. Undercoat is often required to seal unpainted surfaces or prepare the surface for painting. If you are transitioning from a dark to a light color; the undercoat will help to obliterate the color beneath and choose the right color.
